John Burrows: Of Lycoming County When I was thirteen years old, my father sent for me home, and I had to take my turn at riding; and I never carried a mail, during the three years that I rode, but I could have carried on my little finger. My kind step-mother having deceased, my father married a third wife, very unlike his last. She had six children, and he had six. Upon which occasion, his children, not feeling comfortable at home and the news of the British landing on Long Island, we all five marched in the militia; and when our tour expired, we joined the flying camp; was on Long Island at the retreat of it. Two of my brothers were taken at Fort Washington, and the rest of us returned with the remnant of the retreating army to Pennsylvania, and the British close on our heels all the way, until we crossed the Delaware. Gen. Washington lay about two weeks at my father s, opposite Trenton; then removed to Newtown, the county seat of Bucks, from which place he marched with his little army on Christmas morning, 1776, and crossed the Delaware that night, nine miles above Trenton. I crossed with him, and assisted in taking the Hessians next morning. The particulars of the arrangement and plan of the different divisions of the army intending to cross the river, but was prevented by the ice; the places, number of divisions, c., has been erroneously given in history. The prisoners were conveyed across the river, and we remained in Jersey until that day week, the 2d of January,...
